Diane Kominick-Ouzoonian

A native of Portland, Maine, Diane moved to California to attend college at the University of California at Santa Cruz. After graduating, she moved back East to study with Philip Guston and Gretna Campbell at the New York Studio School in Greenwich Village. At Montclair State University, she received a teaching credential and taught art in both the public and private school systems. Now retired, Diane paints daily in pastels, watercolors and oils, and is an active member of the Northeast Watercolor Society.
